Are we dependent on the women...? Ummm. Not sure!

God created the world. Then, he blew life on Earth, and hence came the most complex of all the beings- 'Homo Sapiens alias Human Beings'. Though it's much of a proven fact that all the living organisms hold their own importance on earth, but when it comes to males and females, their domineering demands on each other have just no explanation. Every time the question of interdependence of men and women is raised, the answer has always been as clear as the clouded skies and as straight as a spiral. When asked to a few men via a questionnaire, whether they could imagine a life without their opposite sex, yes they started dreaming of a world full of video games with no women to interrupt. But on the serious note, they confessed that a life without women, would that even be a life? Men agree that at times, they do find an able ear in the female; however, it's a matter of trust and a variable concept and has nothing to do with the genders. Travelling back through the sands of time, women were the 'Queens of the House' (stay in the castle and work through the day) while men were the cardinal breadwinners. Women relied on their 'Better halves' financially and men on the then weaker ones for the domestic chores. But now, the scenario has changed a 'bit' and for the better, as sometime women earn the breads too. On the question of 'the real trouper of the household chores', they say that it's a duty of both the halves to make a home.

OPINION POLL

LITERATI ARE RETURNING AWARDS TO REGISTER THEIR PROTEST AGAINST PRESENT GOVERNMENT WHAT IS YOUR TAKE ON IT?

Agreeing on Amitabh Ghosh's statement says "Awards come from the soul of a nation and not from a government. Governments come and go but awards are a token of love and respect from a nation".

Dr. Swarnendu Baksi
Senior Assistant Professor, Dept. of French, The IIS University, Jaipur

I don't think it is good at all because these awards are instituted by the government of India. I feel that rather than creating a media hype on the return of award. Its more important to reflect the reasons that have led to the literati, artists and scientists to return these awards.

Dr. Shilpi Rizwani,
Senior Assistant Professor,
Dept. of Botany, The IIS University, Jaipur

It may seem wrong to some but it's merely a silent protest against the so called 'free Indian society'. The awardees didn't accept the award to put their lives on stake and if latter is the outcome, then better carry on without an award.

Risha Kalra
Assistant Professor. Dept. of English
The IIS University, Jaipur

People of prominence registering protest against the wrongs in society is important since it brings the cons of society to forefront. Writers returning awards is a way to register their dissatisfaction against government's approach and they are free to do it.

Chanda Asani
Lecturer, Dept. of Women Studies,
The IIS University, Jaipur

I think instead of returning awards, the focus should have been - and continue to be - more on initiating a dialogue among the intelligentsia on the issue of "intolerance", especially questions such as what really constitutes intolerant thought and action in a democracy today. In fact, the entire furore created over artists and authors returning their awards is in itself rather intolerant of the civil society!

Dr. Rimika Singhvi
Sr. Assistant Professor. Dept. Of English
The IIS University, Jaipur

The individuals take advantage of the initial fame which comes with award. Now they want to go with the majority and gain extra fame by returning these awards.

Assistant Professor, Dept. of Psychology,

A WAY OF LIFE .PROF N.D. MATHUR

The Department of Journalism and Mass Communication of The IIS University organised a guest lecture on creativity by Professor N.D Mathur, Department of Business Administration, University of Rajasthan, Jaipur. Prof. Mathur told the students about the check list for creativity i.e. ASARA MOMONA in which each letter symbolises the things which magnifies a person's creativity. He also encouraged students to take risks in life and also said that creativity shows one's level of imagination and represent the exciting way of doing things. The lecture was made interesting by some creative games for the students in the audience which motivated them.

Team Youthspeak*CRITICAL APPRECIATION OF FILMS :KNOW-HOW'S

A demo-lecture on 'Film Criticism' was organized by the Department of English at The IIS University. Dr. Ritu Sen from St. Xavier's College, Jaipur was invited as the speaker for the same. The lecture began with the relevance and components of this upcoming genre and moved on to a brief critical analysis of three movies Hum Apke Hain Kaun, Dilwale Dulhaniya Le Jaenge and Monsoon Wedding. Through this example, the resource person enlightened the students on how to study films on the basis of culture, form, historical background, theme, narration, characterization etc. This thought-provoking lecture on the current trend of study of films motivated the audience to take up research work on this latest genre.

Team Youthspeak*LANGUAGE OF MEDIA

The students of the Department of Journalism and Mass Communication attended the guest lecture by Dr Sudhir soni, director of Rajasthan International Film Festival (RIFF). A media educator and a professional Dr. Soni highlighted the importance of language in media. He spoke about great literati like Swami Vivekanand , Munshi Premchand and Gulzar and explained the 7c's of communication. He ended the session by answering the queries of students and enlightened them to write in different forms. The lecture not only provided valuable knowledge to the students, but also encouraged the students to actively participate in the various media seminars and film festivals.
